Maths Autumn	Number – Place Value		Number – Addition and Subtraction		Measurement - Area		Number - Multiplication and Division
Maths Spring	Number - Multiplication and Division		Measurement – Length and Perimeter		Number - Fractions		Number – Decimals
Maths Summer	Number – Decimals	Measurement - Money	Measurement - Time	Geometry - Shape	Statistics		Geometry – Position and Direction
Science	Animals including humans Describe how food is digested using key vocabulary: mouth, tongue, teeth, oesophagus, stomach, and small and large intestine. Identify different types of teeth e.g. molar, canines, pre-molars, incisors and describe their different purposes. Explain what damages teeth and how to look after them. Plan a fair test to investigate what happens to egg shells (representing tooth enamel) when placed in different sugary liquids. Explain and construct food chains which include producers (plants) , prey	Electricity Understand what electricity is and how it is made and identify common appliances that run on electricity. Understand how to be safe with electricity and its dangers. Identify and name the parts of a simple series electrical circuit. Name cells, wires, bulbs, switches and buzzers. Construct a simple series circuit using components. Explain whether a lamp will light in a simple series circuit, based on whether or not the lamp is part of a complete loop with a battery. Explain how a switch works and its purpose in a circuit.	States of matter All materials can exist as a solid, liquid or gas. Solids have molecules which are tightly packed together, liquids have molecules which are connected but further apart (allowing them to take the shape of their container); in gases molecules are far apart and can move freely. Heating or cooling causes materials to change state. Water freezes at 0C and evaporates at 100C. When water changes from a liquid to a gas this is called evaporation. Explain that evaporation can be speeded up through wind/ blowing or stirring. When water changes from a gas to a liquid this is called condensation. Describe the water cycle in terms of evaporation and condensation. Accurately read temperatures on a thermometer. Plan a fair test: Does the temperature of the air affect the time it takes for water to evaporate off a paper towel.		Sound Understand that sound is a form of energy and sounds are made when objects vibrate. Understand how vibrations from sounds travel through air to the ear. Understand pitch and volume by exploring instruments and the different sounds they make. Understand that sounds get fainter as the distance from the sound source increases. Plan a fair test to measure sounds through different insulation materials. Key Scientists: Alexander Graham Bell (inventor of the telephone)		Living things and their habitats Understand what is meant by a vertebrate and invertebrate and group animals according. Group animals according to species: reptile, amphibians, fish, birds, mammals, insects. Create classification keys which divide types of animals using Yes/ No questions. Classify animals according to features e.g. cold/ warm blooded, exo and endo skeletons, etc. Describe how habitats can change and be damaged over time (Locally & African Savannah).

	(worm) and predators (bird) for a variety of habitats. Key Scientist; William Colgate (toothpaste)	Understand what conductors and insulators are. Make controlled circuits as part of a DT project and associate metals with being good conductors Key Scientists: Thomas Edison (inventor of the lightbulb)	Key Scientists: Anders Celsius (temperature scale); Daniel Fahrenheit (temperature scale); Lord Kelvin (temperature scale)			Explain the impact of environmental change on animals. Key Scientists: Gerard Durrell (conservationist)
